ury without a resident governor to approve them, except on the civil establish ment and special appropriations when the We find it atsted in English exchanges that the skull of the late Mr. Grote, the laterian of Greece, has, in accordance with his own wish, been opened by Frof, Marshall, and, contrary to general belief, the brain has been found to be astoniahillarly and of receiving the statement of the stateme the brain has been found to be astonianingly small and of peculiar formation.
The latter clause was probably added for the comfort of phrenologists.

From a report published in a French journal of the trial of Rossel, who was sentenced to death by the Versailles council of war, it appears that he was most sternly, not to say vindictively, dealt with. It is appearent from the many replies he made during his examination that he was as patriotic, in the true sense of the word, as he was humane and The Tallahassee Floridian wants some Cook, a half-crazed fellow, committed suicide at Norwalk, Conn., on Thursday, in a novel and most deter-mined sort of way, and at the same time ame near murdering his wife. He placed himself across a keg of guspowder which was kept at the foot of his bed, and de-liberately blew himself to atoms. The house was destroyed, but his wife escaped with comparatively few injuries, An official report of the vice-consul of France at St. Thomas to the French Min-ister of Marine and the Colonian, states that after a severe gale in the morning the wind, which had done no great damage, swept over the town, leveling hearly every house in the place, and blowing to pieces many wooden ones." "Twenty-two persons," says the vice-consul, "were killed and thirty wounded."
